Scope of the 43rd ISEO

The purpose of the 43rd ISEO will be to highlight and to discuss in depth recent developments and progresses in the field of essential oils, volatiles and related subjects.

During four days, academics, industrials and researchers alike will have the opportunity to:

- Promote the interaction between different disciplines,
- Complement and improve the scientific training of the next generation of researchers,
- Raise public awareness to this field of science,
- Promote the dissemination of results,
- Exchange expertise and technology,
- Bring new contributions to the field of essential oils and volatiles research.

Venue

The 43rd ISEO will be hosted by the Faculty of Sciences of the University of Lisbon (FCUL), located almost in the Lisbon centre of life, just a few minutes away from the Lisbon International Airport.

Call for Contributions

The scientific program will comprise both oral and poster presentations. Invited speakers will deliver main lectures.

Contributions on essential oils, volatiles and related fields are invited. A panel of referees will review the abstracts for inclusion in the abstract book.
